Foreword

Classical High School is vibrant in the year 1969. To capture the essence of this vitality, one needs to look to the people of Classical. Working together toward scholastic and personal growth, these people create a unique atmosphere of friendship which permeates the entire school. The 1969 edition of the Blue and White is dedicated to capturing this very special spirit of friendship as it is reflected through the Administration, the Students, and the Activities at Classical High School.

The administration at Classical sets the tone for the friendly school spirit. Many enriching friendships exist between student and teacher. The students carry this spirit through to their relationship with one another. Classmates, who may all be strangers to a student in his freshman year, become friends by the time the student is a senior ready for graduation. These important friendships develop through the sharing of experiences. The many activities at Classical provide unlimited opportunities for friendships to thrive. Whether it be co-operating with a team-mate on the playing field or co-planning an activity for I.R.C., the chance to make a new friend is always present.

A question still remains: Why is the 1969 edition of the Blue and White dedicated to capturing this spirit of friendship at Classical High School? The tragic and senseless deaths of John F. Kennedy, Martin Luther King, and Robert Kennedy, seem to say that we are living in an age when there is an urgent demand for brotherhood among all the peoples of the world. We, the members of the Blue and White staff, feel it is relevant to emphasize that students at Classical are learning the foundations of brotherhood through the many friendships they make at school by working together with classmates and faculty. These friendships contribute toward the development of better individuals as well as better citizens of the future.

Graduation

We remember these teachers as friends.

MISS CHRISTINE SAUER

The retirement of Miss Christine Sauer last year, brought to a close her long career of dedicated service to students. All of her students enjoyed her wit in the classroom. She had a special kind of warmth which endeared her to her pupils. Miss Sauer loved beauty and decorated her homeroom gaily. She received her B.S. and M.A. from Columbia University, and did further graduate work at Springfield College. While at Classical, Miss Sauer taught English, Reading Efficiency, and Vocabulary Building. She was also adviser to Pierides. All those who know her, teachers and students, will miss her presence deeply.

DR. EDNA FREDRICK

After twelve years of dedicated teaching here at Classical, Dr. Edna Frederick retired. For ten years she was chairman of the language department. Students will remember her as a kind and fair teacher. Her pleasant temperament always made it a joy to be in her class. Dr. Fredrick is a graduate of Mount Holyoke and Bryn Mawr. She also attended the University of Paris. While at Classical, she advised the National Honor Society besides her regular duties as a French teacher. Classical will miss her.

ADMINISTRATION

The friendships that are formed between faculty members and students are an important part of the educational system at Classical. Exchanging ideas with a teacher or adviser helps a student to develop a better understanding of himself and those around him. Cheryl Midwood, Mary Karczmarczyk, and Estelle Kaplan compare life in the United States with that in Africa as they talk with Mr. Annino and his guest Joshua Kolawole from Nigeria.

A friendly rapport exists between

Mr. Raymond Montagna, principal of Classical, proudly presents Mark Bousquet with the hockey team's trophy won for placing third in the 1967-1968 Western Massachusetts Tournament. Mr. Montagna and Mark enjoy reminiscing about highlights of this exciting season.

administration and students.

In addition to being busy as assistant principal, Mr. Arthur Comeau serves as adviser to the Student Government at Classical. One of Student Government's most important functions is to post any articles about Classical that appear in local newspapers. Mr. Comeau comments to Debbie Megas and Sue Smart, seniors on Student Government, about the articles that they are posting.

Mr. Russell Peterson, assistant principal at Classical, finds himself very busy all year long, particularly with schedule adjustments and program changes. Richard Pollak asks Mr. Peterson whether it is possible to rearrange his conflicting schedule.

Understanding counselors guide students

Mr. Robert White, who serves as the counselor to the class of '70, is always happy to chat with anyone, as he is with senior Cheryl Midwood. Mr. White who holds a bachelor's degree in education from the University of Maine, and a master's degree from Westfield State College, has also earned his certificate of advanced graduate study from the University of Massachusetts, and has engaged in additional advanced studies at Columbia University. In his job as a counselor, Mr. White tries to "see the students' point of view" and to help serve the student whenever he needs guidance.

Miss Mary E. Corcoran is in charge of the large class of '71. Well equipped for this task, Miss Corcoran earned her bachelor's degree in education from Westfield State College and her master's degree in counseling and guidance from Springfield College. Miss Corcoran has also pursued additional advanced study courses at the University of Michigan, Columbia University, and Boston University. Besides visiting various colleges around the country, Miss Corcoran also represents Classical in many programs, such as the College Scholarship Service. Miss Corcoran is concerned with helping the freshmen, such as Katie McKelligott, to reach their aims.

toward successful careers.

Mrs. Margaret Ramos is involved with all three classes. She is usually in 109 organizing conferences, making out schedules and listening to students. Mrs. Ramos, who received her bachelor and master's degrees in education at Bates College, has served on many committees involved with school work in the past years. She also has served as the state treasurer of the Women Deans and Counselors. Mrs. Ramos describes her job as one of "understanding" in order to "help carry out the ideals" of the students. Kaye Thomas finds Mrs. Ramos an understanding counselor.

Mr. Baron McDuffee is a familiar figure to all Classical seniors since he came to this school three years ago to take over the class of '69. Mr. McDuffee received his bachelor's and master's degrees in education from Fitchburg State Teachers College, his sixth level certificate in administration from the University of Connecticut, and his master's degree in counseling from the University of New York at Buffalo. During his three years at Classical, Mr. McDuffee has helped the freshmen of the class of '69 grow and develop into mature seniors. He is helping senior Jerry Hammarlof decide which college to choose next year.

Busy secretaries perform

As chief secretary in the main office, Mrs. Rubino assigns work, types transcripts, and orders supplies and equipment.

As a teachers' aide, Mrs. Cantwell does clerical work, types tests, and corrects papers.

Mrs. Sengle, a secretary in the guidance office, helps whenever she is needed, usually by taking phone calls, writing letters, and making appointments for students.

vital functions at Classical.

Mrs. Kitrosser, a new secretary this year, is the office clerk who takes phone calls and with a smile sees to it that the school affairs run smoothly.

The transcripts that are so important to Classical seniors are Mrs. Norris' specialty.

Mrs. Sheehan helps the main office to run smoothly by calling absentees, taking phone calls, and especially by preparing the daily bulletin.

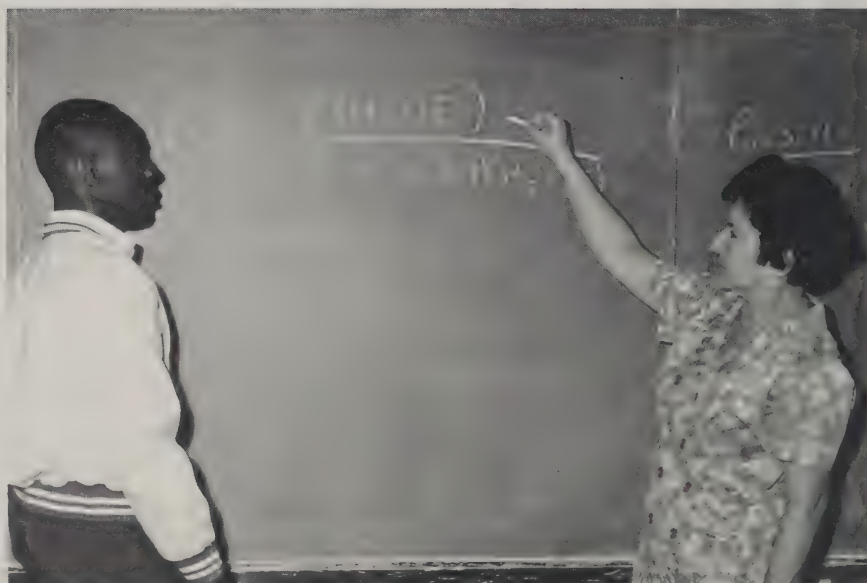

Working together, teachers and students

Miss Carolina Accorsi, a very gracious lady, is a graduate of Classical, who received her B.A. from Skidmore College and did graduate work at the Catholic University of America. She teaches French and Spanish. Outside of school Miss Accorsi enjoys doing volunteer work with Spanish speaking children.

Mrs. Julia Bale teaches the advanced math classes at Classical High. Always available for outside help, she gladly explains a problem to Ronald Harrell. She is a graduate of Hunter College and Columbia University, and has taken part in the National Science Foundation program at the University of New Mexico. Mrs. Bale serves as one of the advisers to the Senior Class.

Mr. Henry Brady teaches English and journalism, and serves as the Recorder adviser. Journalism, a new course this year, is offered to members of the Recorder staff. Although his outside activities include officiating at soccer and basketball games, his most enjoyable activity is "spending as much time as I can with my wife and baby." Mr. Brady received his B.A. and M.A. from Baylor and his B.S. from Yale, and he has completed two years on the Ph.D level at Harvard.

Miss Teresa Boylan, who teaches both Spanish and English, enlivens her classes with the knowledge of Spanish culture. Miss Boylan received her A.B. from Trinity College in Washington and her masters from Harvard University. During the summer she has also studied at the University of Madrid. In addition to teaching, Miss Boylan devotes much of her time to advising the Blue and White staff. She is showing Geralyn Laramee the secret of a successful layout.

Though he may be mistaken for a student, Mr. Richard Annino teaches math at Classical. A former secondary school teacher for the Peace Corps in Nigeria, he received his B.S. at the University of Massachusetts, and did graduate work at the University of New Hampshire. Mr. Annino enjoys bowling and philately.

Mrs. Julia Beverley, a graduate of Classical High, is also a graduate of Wellesley College and Columbia University. A math teacher, she goes over a make-up test with Martha Heaton. Having served as a Red Cross volunteer in England, Mrs. Beverley became adviser to the Junior Red Cross. Outside of school she enjoys all travel, especially her "weekend trip to Iceland."

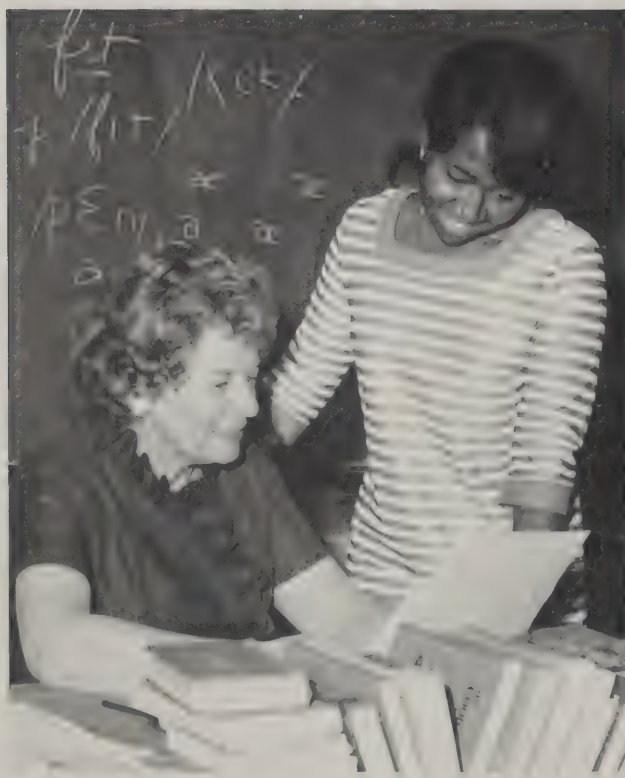

Academics and activities

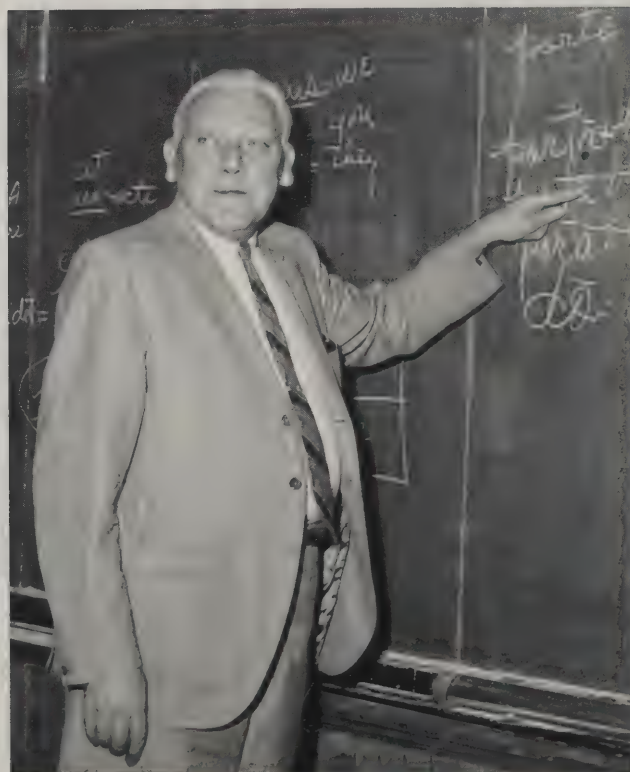

Mr. Milton Corbin, an American history teacher, also teaches Problems of Democracy and advises I.R.C. He is a graduate of Springfield College, and also attended Columbia University. Prior to the showing of a movie on agriculture, Mr. Corbin is offering a few suggestions for class participation.

Miss Ruth Dickerman, chairman of the English Department, is also adviser to the Girls' Patrol. Miss Dickerman received her B.A. from Mount Holyoke, and a graduate degree from Springfield College. An English and speech teacher, she helps Jackie Blount with an essay.

Mr. Robert Curley, a graduate of Holy Cross College, teaches Latin and French. He makes the intricacies of language clear to his class. Outside of school Mr. Curley enjoys golf and music.

An English and speech teacher, Mrs. Jean Bogan is explaining the oddities of the Elizabethan tongue. Besides being an adviser to the Class of '70, she has taken on the added responsibilities of adviser to Scribe. Mrs. Bogan comes from Michigan, where she graduated from Michigan State College and received her M.A. in English from the University of Michigan. In her spare time, Mrs. Bogan enjoys her three children, reading, sewing, knitting and baseball.

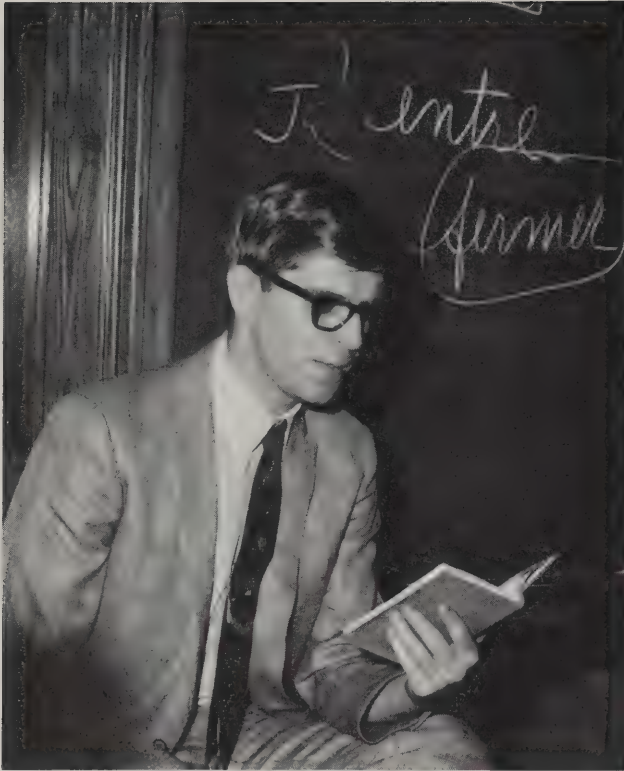

Mrs. Audrey Desrochers, a graduate of Sargent College at Boston University, is a gym teacher. Also known as "Mrs. D", she enjoys music, reading, sewing, knitting and Oriental art. Caught leaving after a hard day's work, she paused long enough for a picture.

Mrs. Vasie Braos, an English teacher, who attended A.I.C. and Clark University, discusses a problem with Annette Valone. Outside of school, Mrs. Braos enjoys painting and reading.

Teachers help students to grow

Mr. David Douglas, a French and Spanish teacher, discusses the novel Pêcheur d'Islande with his French 4s class. Mr. Douglas received his B.A. from American International College and M.A. from the University of Massachusetts. Outside of school he enjoys all sports. His hobbies are camping, visiting ski lodges, and golfing.

Mr. Richard Guzowski is previewing slides in order to plan a tenth grade biology lab. Mr. Guzowski, a biology teacher, also advises the Classical Scientific Association. He received both his B.A. and M. Ed. at the University of Massachusetts. In his spare time, Mr. Guzowski enjoys traveling and camping.

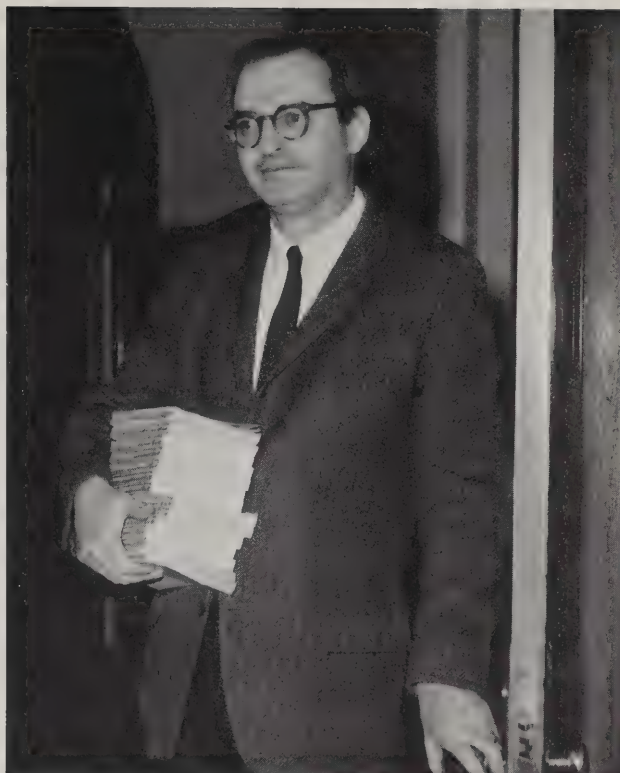

After practice-teaching at Classical last year, Mrs. Antoinetta Di Michele came to Classical this year to teach Spanish. In order to augment the language curriculum, Mrs. Di Michele discusses a unique type of Spanish architecture with her class. Mrs. Di Michele is a graduate of Our Lady of the Elms College. In her spare time, she enjoys reading, sewing and bowling.

Mrs. Frances Evans, who teaches economics and history, is a newcomer to Classical this year. She is a graduate of Brooklyn College and Columbia University, and is currently pursuing a doctorate degree at the University of Massachusetts. Although her studies are very demanding, Mrs. Evans finds time to be an adviser to I.R.C. and involve herself in community affairs.

Mr. Francis Girr, who attended the University of Rhode Island and the University of Connecticut, is well known among students for his sense of humor. In addition to teaching English, he has charge of distributing books for the English department. His outside interests include art, reading, and woodworking.

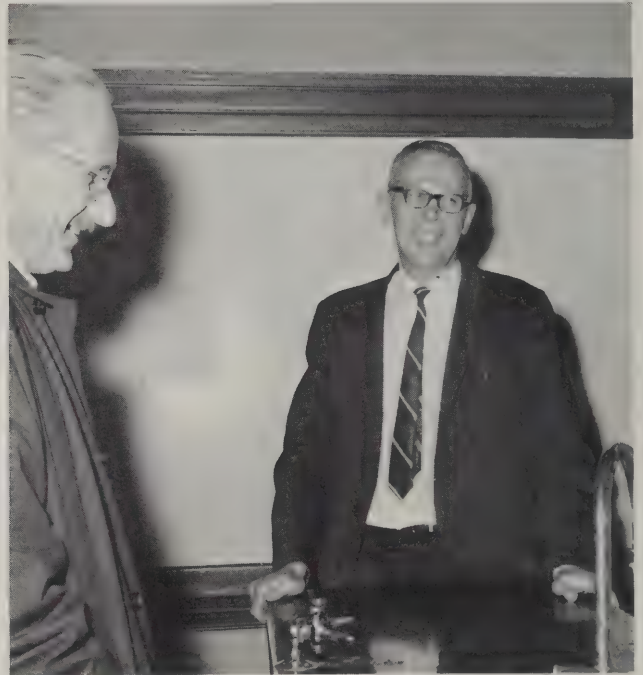

Mr. Philip Hart teaches the boys in his gym classes the fundamental principles of physical fitness and sportsmanship. Apparently he does the same for his varsity teams. Besides an outstanding record in basketball, Classical has compiled a record of nineteen straight football victories under his guidance. Coach Hart received his bachelor's and master's degrees from American International College. Topic for discussion with Danny Harrold: the approaching basketball season.

Classical teachers serve

Band instructor, Mr. Frederick Kerr, helps students prepare for the Christmas Concert. Mr. Kerr's background includes study at Boston University, Boston Conservatory, University of Connecticut, Springfield College, and Berkely School of Music. He is adviser to the Chess Club and is a skilled player. Mr. Kerr's principal interest outside school is "in the field of economics, especially the stock market."

At parents' night, Mr. Francis M. Lamoureux explains the aims of his chemistry course to an interested father. Besides teaching chemistry Mr. Lamoureux is in charge of locker key distribution. He received his B.A. and MTA at AIC and earned a Master of Natural Science degree at Worcester Polytechnical Institute. His hobbies include skiing, camping, and music.

Miss Almeda King, a member of the English department, leads a discussion about Robert Warren. She earned her B.S. in education at Bridgewater State College and received her M.A.L.S. in literature and her C.A.S. in intellectual history from Wesleyan. This year, Miss King initiated a one semester course for CP students called the Writing Workshop. Since students are not graded in the workshop, they progress at their own rate to reach the goal of the course—the development of increased powers of observation and critical thinking. In addition to teaching this special class, Miss King keeps busy with her Student Government activities. Her hobbies include reading, playing tennis, and theater-going.

Mr. LeClair receives a pleasant surprise after a day of teaching German, French and American History classes. Ending his fourth year at Classical, Mr. LeClair is adviser for the German Club, and one of the advisors for the senior class. He received his formal education at U. Mass. where he earned his B.A. A family man, Mr. LeClair enjoys reading, the outdoors, and sports in general.

A member of the math department, Mr. Armen Jermakian attended Rensselaer College, the University of Massachusetts, and the University of the State of New York. In his spare time, he enjoys golfing and bowling.

Devoted to French culture, Mr. Euclid Lague spends a great deal of time in the laboratory. He obtained his master's degree and did graduate work at Middlebury College, and has also done graduate study at Brown University and at the Sorbonne. This year Mr. Lague is adviser to the Senate. In his spare time, he enjoys experimenting with photography.

Teachers inspire students

Mr. Raymond Lussier, known for his keen sense of humor, enjoys a few light moments while explaining La Symphonie Pastorale. Besides doing graduate work abroad, he has attended the University of Massachusetts, Westfield State, Springfield College, Connecticut State College and Assumption.

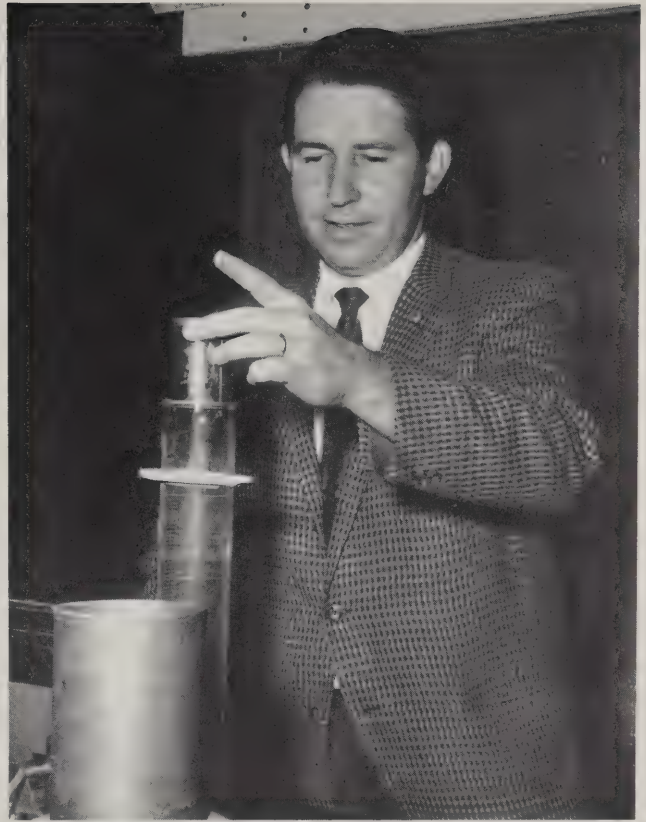

Mr. Howard Lynch, a physics teacher, explains the objectives of his course. He received his B.A. from Harvard, and did graduate work at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Outside of school he enjoys camping and music.

Mr. Raymond Marr, a newcomer to Classical this year, demonstrates the ease of problem solving to Frank Pupek. Mr. Marr received his B.S. in math at the University of Massachusetts, and his M.Ed. at Westfield State. Outside of school he is a soccer and LaCrosse official, and enjoys skiing.

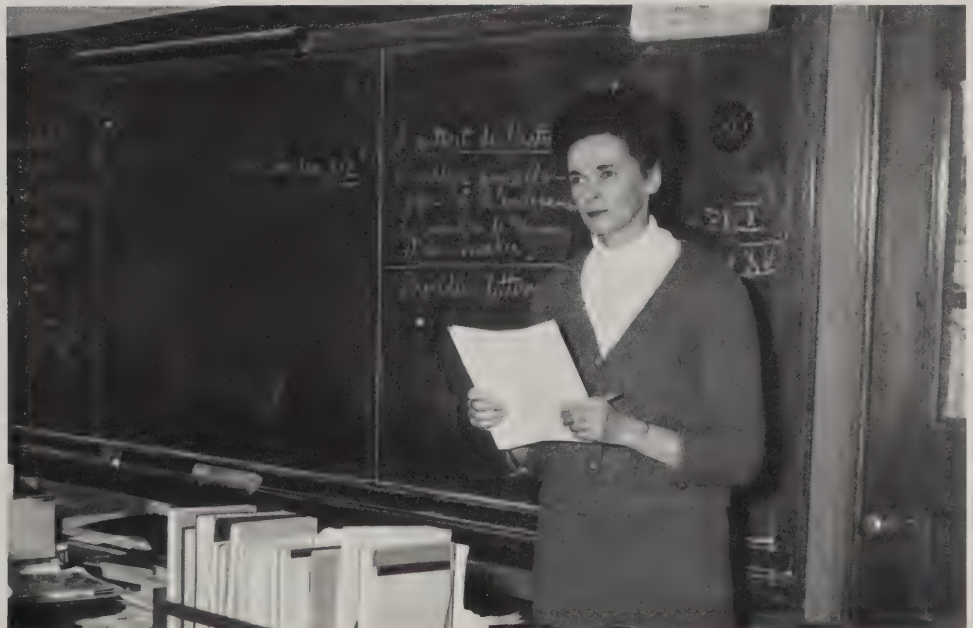

to be inquisitive and creative.

Mr. Edward Lundrigan, a biology teacher, performs a difficult experiment concerning density. Mr. Lundrigan received his B.S. from St. Michael's College and M.Ed. from Our Lady of the Elms. Outside of school he enjoys fishing, his baby son, and belonging to charitable organizations.

Miss Mary K. Morris, teacher of American History and Problems of Democracy discusses her courses with parents on Open House Night. Miss Morris received her degrees from Westfield State College and Yale University. She also serves as the adviser to the Future Teachers' Club. Music, art and stamp collecting are among her outside interests.

Miss Mary E. McCarthy, a Spanish teacher, and adviser to the senior class, checks attendance before beginning a strenuous day. Miss McCarthy attended Our Lady of the Elms College where she received her A.B. and then later obtained her M.Ed. from Springfield College.

Good teachers steer students

Mr. Daniel Meder, a graduate of Springfield College, Trinity College in Hartford, and A.I.C., teaches American History and Government. As adviser to Classical's Boys' Patrol, Mr. Meder has the sense of humor necessary to handle his all male homeroom. He is also the faculty manager of athletics and adviser to the Chess Club. Mr. Meder enjoys traveling and attending hockey games in his spare time.

Dr. Philip Miller, versatile teacher of two languages, poses beneath the French and Hebrew signs at the front of his room. A thirteen-year member of Classical's faculty, Dr. Miller is a graduate of the City College of New York. He received his M.A. and doctorate from the Jewish Theological Seminary. Dr. Miller, who enjoys traveling, has also studied at the University of Rennes in France and the Hebrew University in Jerusalem. At Classical Dr. Miller is adviser to the Hebrew Club.

Adviser to the National Honor Society, Mrs. Mabel Morrill sells a book to Kathy Chandler at the society's annual Book Fair. Mrs. Morrill teaches Creative Writing in addition to her other English classes. After graduating from Emerson College, Mrs. Morrill earned her B.A. at Boston University. An enthusiastic traveler, she has visited many parts of the United States.

Miss Irene Meunier's classes in French 3x and French 4x keep her busy with an ample supply of papers to correct. A graduate of Elms College, Miss Meunier has done post-graduate work in French at Assumption College and Laval University in Quebec. Miss Meunier is adviser to the French Club. In her spare time, she enjoys music, gardening, and reading.

Mr. Joseph Nai, the art teacher at Classical, is always involved with some new and different project for his art classes, such as this giant chess board made by the Art II class. Mr. Nai, who earned his Bachelor's degree in education at New York University and his Master's degree at Bridgewater Teacher's College, has also taken art courses at the Hartford Art School of the University of Hartford. Mr. Nai acts as the adviser to the Art Club in his free time, and also pursues his interest in sculpturing.

Miss Virginia Mills explains a mural on Shakespearean plays to her English 12h class as part of their study of Macbeth. An English and speech teacher, Miss Mills is also adviser to Pierides. She is a graduate of Bates College and received her M.A. from Trinity College in Hartford. Among Miss Mills' favorite pastimes is traveling and she has done post-graduate work at the University of London.

Teachers participate in all

Miss Niedick and Mrs. Ramsdell prepare to give a cheer at the Student-Faculty Basketball Game.

Miss Mary Jane Niedick is adviser for the cheerleaders and student leaders. She received her B.S. at the University of Massachusetts, and also attended Russell Sage College. In her spare time, she enjoys skiing, swimming and surfing.

Mrs. Patricia Ramsdell attended Our Lady of the Elms College and Ohio State University. In her spare time, she teaches calculus at A.I.C. and enjoys skiing.

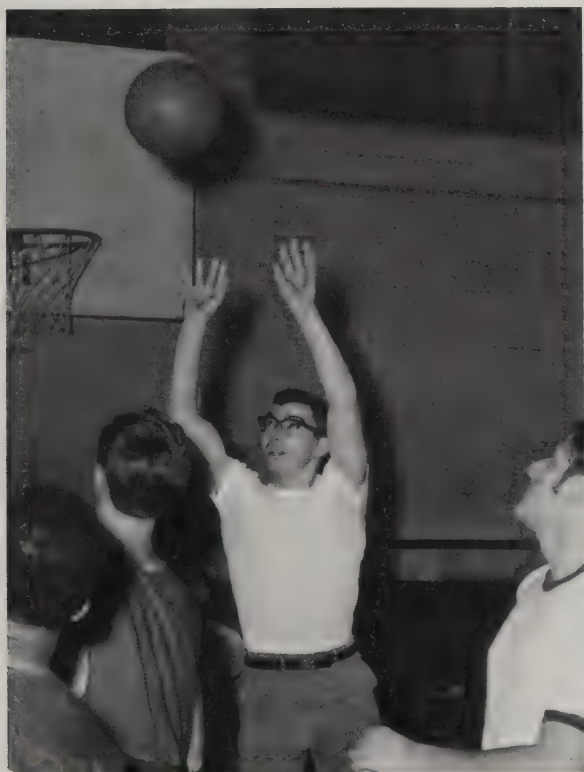

Mr. James O'Donnell of the science department notes his observations on a current project. Mr. O'Donnell attended Holy Cross, the University of Massachusetts, and Syracuse, and has done summer graduate work at Tufts, Penn State, Cornell, and Boston University. An active member of the Springfield Educational Association, he also serves as an elected representative on the Model Cities Policy Board.

English teacher and dramatic coach, Mr. Richard Pervonga is busy with piles of examination papers. In past years he has been a director of Carousel. His hobbies include reading, skiing, and collecting paintings. Mr. Pervonga has attended American International College, Boston University, and Indiana University.

Mr. Alan G. Peck scores at the Student-Faculty Basketball Game. Mr. Peck earned his Ed.B. at Westfield State College and his Masters degree at Rutgers University. Outside of school, Mr. Peck enjoys skiing, camping, and working with his Boy Scout Troop.

Caught in between classes, Mrs. Laurie Pieterse gathers a stack of compositions ready to pass back to her freshman English class. Mrs. Pieterse is a newcomer to the English department this year. She maintains that she "teaches people, not English." After graduating from Our Lady of the Elms College, Mrs. Pieterse received her M.A. at Yale University.

Classical teachers challenge students

Miss Irene Rouillard teaches French, and serves as chairman of the language department at Classical. She received her B.A. from Wellesley College and her M.A. at Middlebury College. Miss Rouillard also studied at Sorbonne and the University of Michigan. Working in her garden and skiing are her outside activities.

Mr. Eugene Rudderforth has been teaching history at Classical for the past two years. He has attended Springfield College, Westfield State College, and Western Reserve in Cleveland, Ohio. His outside interests are camping, bowling, swimming and reading.

Miss Teresa Regina, an English teacher at Classical checks attendance before departure to Stage West. She received her B.A. from Springfield College, and her M.A. at Mount Holyoke College. In addition to working on political campaigns, her outside interests include reading and painting.

to achieve new goals.

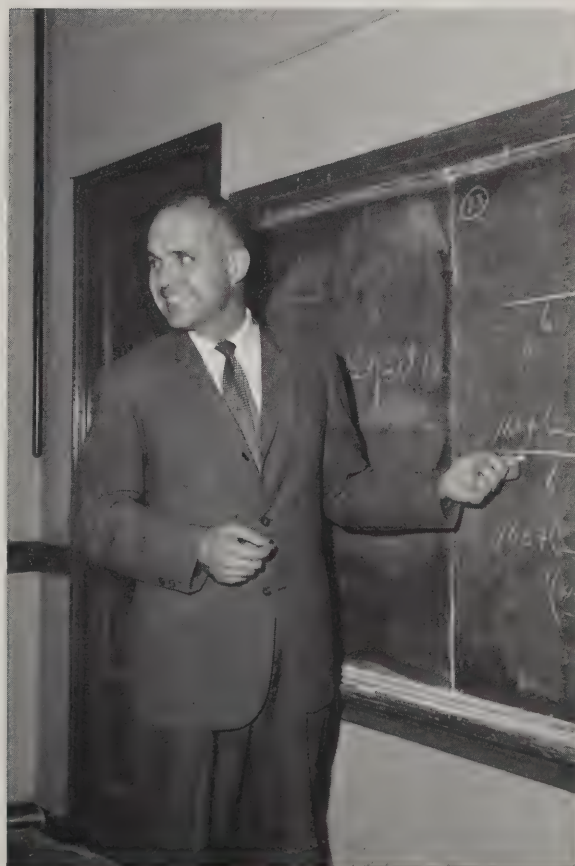

Miss Dorothy Porter plays a vital role in teaching Classical students how to type. She also serves as business adviser to the Blue and White. In her spare time, Miss Porter enjoys reading and traveling.

Mrs. Erlene Provost has been a physiology teacher at Classical for four years. She earned her B.A. at Anna Maria College and her MAT at Smith College. Besides being adviser to the Future Nurses' Club, she enjoys reading, music, and art.

Mr. Richard Pare is one of the prime factors of our math department. He also serves as the coordinator of the Audio-Visual Aides department. Golf is his favorite outside activity. Mr. Pare is a graduate of the University of Massachusetts.

Helping students reach their maximum potential,

Mr. Francis Smith teaches American history and Latin. He is also a junior class adviser. A graduate of Holy Cross he received his M.Ed. at the University of Massachusetts. Among Mr. Smith's outside activities are skiing, playing the piano, swimming, traveling, politics, and the writing of witty sayings, his favorite being "What you are to be, you are now becoming."

Mr. Andrew Scibelli received his B.A. from St. Anselm's College and M.Ed. at the State College in Boston. He teaches biology and is the cross country and baseball coach. In his three years of coaching Mr. Scibelli has been most successful as both of his teams have compiled fine records. In his spare time he enjoys golfing and going to sport events.

Mrs. Leda Scagnelli, a member of the Classical Junior High School faculty, teaches Italian I and II at the high school level. Mrs. Scagnelli attended State College at Worcester and Casa Italiana at Columbia University. In her spare time Mrs. Scagnelli enjoys traveling. She has visited Italy, France and Switzerland.

teachers encourage the desire to learn.

Mr. Jerome Shea who teaches biology, received his degrees from St. Anselm's College and Westfield State College. Mr. Shea is famous for his greenhouse on the third floor. Mr. Shea raises all kinds of plants there. He also takes special interest in his aquarium. Mr. Shea stirred up great excitement with his home grown orchid this year.

Mr. Paul Robbins is in his second year at Classical. He has had a long career of studying and teaching music. Mr. Robbins graduated from Columbia University and studied for five years at the New England Conservatory of Music. Having taught music abroad in the Armed Forces, Mr. Robbins was able to see much of Europe.

Miss Lorraine Plasse, a newcomer to Classical this year, teaches English. Miss Plasse attended Emmanuel College where she received her A.B. She received her M.A. from New York University.

The Classical faculty encourages

Mr. Robert Wessman, who is well-known for his ever present smile, is a graduate of Brown University and Springfield College. Besides teaching math, he is the adviser to the Culture Vultures. Outside of school he enjoys reading and working with metal and wood.

Mrs. Phyllis Thomas is a new member of the Classical High faculty. She received her A.B. from A.I.C. and her M.Ed. from Our Lady of the Elms College. Mrs. Thomas enjoys going to the theater and listening to music. She serves as an adviser to the Class of 1970.

Coach Donald Vaughan has been a member of the Classical faculty for thirty years. He received his B.P.E. and M.Ed. from Springfield College. Coach Vaughan coached Classical's soccer team to co-champs three times, the track team to Western Mass. champs, the golf team, tennis team and basketball team. He also teaches Drivers' Education to Classical boys. Coach Vaughan enjoys experimenting around the kitchen, gardening, and spending his summers at the Cape. He enjoys the opportunity to talk with two of Classical's athletic stars, Mark Szfranski and Gary Parks.

Mr. Robert Stevens, a math teacher and adviser to the class of '69, received his M.A. from AIC and is currently working for his M.S. at Boston College. Presently, he is taking a computer course at the Computer Environment Institution in West Springfield. His outside activities include camping, swimming, gardening, and skiing.

Mr. John Sullivan has been a math teacher for fourteen years. Prior to teaching at Classical he taught at Forest Park Junior High School. He received his B.S. from the University of Massachusetts and his M.Ed. from Springfield College. Mr. Sullivan enjoys golfing and sailing in his spare time.

Mrs. Beulah Towne, a member of the science department, received her A.B. and M.S. from Middlebury College. Mrs. Towne taught in New York State prior to her thrilling wartime experiences as one of the research scientists who did the original work to convert penicillin from a laboratory curiosity to an antibiotic drug.

An understanding faculty is alert

Mrs. Harriet Widland, a newcomer to Classical this year, discusses Silas Marner with a freshman class. Mrs. Widland also teaches drama. She has attended Syracuse University and Springfield College, and enjoys reading in her spare time.

Mr. William Young, chairman of the social studies department, teaches American, Ancient and European histories. Along with these, he also teaches Anthropology. Describing an ancient Aztec relic to his class, he demonstrates his first-hand knowledge of the subject. Mr. Young received his A.B. from Syracuse University and his A.M. from the University of Michigan.

Looking over some English exams, Mr. Neil Yesu is amused by the essay of one of his students. For the past two years, he has devoted time after school as adviser to the Senate. Mr. Yesu received his B.A. from A.I.C., his M.Ed. at Westfield State, and his Certificate of Advanced Studies from Springfield College. Outside of school, he enjoys life in general, especially sports.

to the needs of an ever-growing student body.

Miss Isabelle Brown, our school librarian, goes over index cards in the library. Miss Brown is a graduate of Mount Holyoke College and Syracuse University.

Most important to Classical is our school nurse, Mrs. Rose Burns, who graduated from Mercy Hospital School of Nursing. She is sympathetic to students who meet with ill health or accidents during school hours. Mrs. Burns examines Janey Bier-nacki who feels she may have contracted the Hong Kong Flu.

The lunchroom personnel and

The cashiers are essential for the smooth running of the lunchroom: (front row) Cleo Babacas, Barbara Azan, Debbie Sheldon; (second row) Beverly Brown, Wendy Hardy, Chris Partridge,

The friendships established between students at Classical often continue long after graduation. With the initiation of the senior privilege policy, seniors are able to leave their study halls in the spring months and meet with friends to discuss post-graduation plans. James Methe, Richard Pollak, Linda Brown, Judy Crowe, and Michael Toti are enjoying this privilege in the Quadrangle.

Classmates:

Long after we leave Classical High School, the education we have received will continue to shape and mold our lives. Through our own efforts together with those of the faculty we have been better prepared to face the problems which will confront us in the years to come. We have gained much and will contribute much in striving to make ourselves useful citizens in a free society. The quality of our education has given us the inspiration to achieve the goals we have set for ourselves.

As graduation day approaches, we should all pause a moment and think about our stay at Classical. In some respects, it has been a long period of constant studying, taking notes, and revising term papers. It has also been three years of football practice, Student Government meetings, and band rehearsals. It has been a time of rallies and cheering. It has been a time to make friends. It has been a time to grow as individuals. It has been an experience never to be forgotten.

Serving as president of this class has been a great honor for me. I am deeply grateful for the help and support you have given me these past three years.

The junior class officers and advisers

Much of the success of the junior year of the Class of 1970 has been due in a large measure to the tireless efforts and planning of its capable advisers: Mr. Robert Curley, Mrs. Jean Bogan, Mr. Francis Smith, and Mrs. Phyllis Thomas.

Under the leadership of the competent class advisers and officers, the junior class has had a successful year. At the beginning of the year capable juniors took over many important functions in several school organizations. They have held offices in many clubs, and have made outstanding contributions to the school. They play an important part on the staffs of both the Recorder and the Blue and White. They have also been active in varsity and junior varsity sports, and several juniors are cheerleaders. Musically inclined juniors participated in Madrigal and Choir, adding to the enjoyment and quality of the concerts. Socially the class played an important part in organizing the Holiday Semi-Formal. Moreover, the Junior Prom was one of the best ever held. As this year comes to a close, the members of the junior class are looking forward to becoming seniors.

The freshmen officers and advisers

At a meeting of the freshmen class officers, member-at-large Holly St. Jean, Secretary Jamie Herlihy, President Marc Skvirsky, Treasurer Claudia Mitchell, and Vice President Amy Quirk are discussing possible activities for the Class of '71.

On September 4, 1968, the class of 1971 entered the hallowed halls of Classical. Anxiously they awaited Mr. Montagna's greeting at their first class assembly. At first glance, it was apparent to the juniors and seniors that the frosh would play an important role in the spirit that belongs to Classical. In a short while, they adjusted to Classical's daily routine of friends and classes. The Class of '71 on November 15, 1968 chose as their officers: President Mark Skvirsky, Vice-President Amy Quirk, Secretary Jamie Herlihy, Treasurer Claudia Mitchell, and Member-at-Large Holly St. Jean. As their Student Government representatives they elected Roy Belden, Jean Crowe, Carleen Dahlke, Elena Grechko, Nancy Horowitz, James Lepow, and James Pappas.

Determined to become fulfilled members of Classical High, the freshmen actively cheered on our boys at the athletic events. They proved themselves academically by placing 53 students on the honor roll for the first time around. The school clubs and activities soon were filled with willing and able frosh. Fulfilling their potential in their first year, the freshman are eagerly looking forward to their next two years.

The Class of 1971 is fortunate to have as class advisers, Mr. Sullivan, Mrs. Ramsdell, Mr. Guzowski, and Mrs. DiMichele.

ACTIVITIES

School activities provide the opportunity to extend classroom friendships as well as to make new friends. A highlight of the school year is always the annual football jamboree, which introduces freshmen to the dynamic school spirit at Classical. This year proud classmates cheered their team to a second undefeated football season.

Production of a yearbook

Jean Travis, Randi Tillman, and Elaine Blake crop and measure pictures for the senior section.

The student section is one of the highpoints of the Blue and White. A tremendous amount of time and effort especially goes into the senior section. At the termination of the junior year, section editors-to-be make picture appointments for each junior in the months from June to September. Each senior receives a questionnaire in order that the section editors can summarize his three years at Classical. Underclassmen also receive the same care and attention. During the months of September, October, and November, freshmen and junior section editors schedule each homeroom picture. Each student must be identified immediately to ensure proper representation in the yearbook.

The sports section, Brian Lambert and Richard Thatcher working with art editor Sue Grant, has many creative additions this year. Much planning goes into every page. Every minute statistic must be checked and rechecked so that the students receive an accurate description of the athletic year.

The administration section displays the hobbies and qualifications of Classical teachers. Section editors interview teachers in order to gain an insight into their personalities. Staff members compile this information into a write-up and combine it with a picture of the teacher. Janey Biernacki and Joanne Denny type the write-ups for the administration section.

The activities section includes all clubs and organizations throughout Classical. Staff members contact each adviser and extract information concerning the club's events. Each adviser fills out a questionnaire which enables the staff members to form a concise description of the organization's purpose and functions. Doug Loux, Danny Harrold, and Richard Rigazio check files for information.

The Blue and White period involves much work on the part of all members of the staff. Constant consultation is necessary for producing a well constructed yearbook. Sue Grant and Richard Thatcher decide which picture to use in the sports section; Danny examine contributions to Scribe.

The 11th English class under the direction of Mrs. Bogan publishes the Classical literary magazine. Scribe, containing essays, poems, and short stories, has become an integral part of the school. To insure high quality, the staff meets after school to analyze contributions submitted by students.

Members of The Blue and White Advertising Staff Kristine Weiner, Rhea Kalman, Jean Wright, Elizabeth Dotan, Scott

Bennett, Estelle Grady, Judy Nothacker and Janey Biernacki prepare to type up some advertisements.

The first step in the publishing an issue of Recorder is the assignment of stories by senior page editors to junior members on the staff. Senior Robert Levine asks Ira Deitch to write an article for the sports page. Robin Freedman discusses a forthcoming editorial with George Hirsch, Debbie Smith, and Chris Nicholson.

and mold student opinion

After all stories have been edited, the copy is sent to the printer. The printer then returns galley proofs of all copy, on which typed stories appear in column form. The next step is to correct the galleys and paste them on drawing sheets according to the page layout. Working with the galleys are Allan Rosen, Diane Cormier, Karen Richards, Erica Green, and Jonathan Greenberg.

The members of the Classical Recorder newspaper staff are juniors and seniors chosen for their interest and ability in the theoretical and practical aspects of high school journalism. They receive one quarter academic credit in journalism for each year they serve on the Recorder staff.

The staff is chosen by the adviser from applicants who are invited to apply in the spring of their freshman year.

Senior staff members comprise the editorial staff of the Recorder. They are responsible for editing copy, making layouts, and correcting proofs for each issue of the paper.

Junior staff members are instructed in the fundamentals of journalism with particular stress on writing for a newspaper. These students are assigned theoretical and practical problems in gathering news, soliciting advertisements, writing stories, and editing copy.

Final approval for all copy and layouts must come from Recorder adviser Mr. Henry Brady, Editor-in-Chief Rachel Skvirsky, and Managing Editor Brad Goff.

Student government is an active

President Tom Andros conducts a student government meeting. Brian Lambert is giving his treasurer's report.

Mark Rogan serves as bartender at the annual Holiday semi-formal.

Student Government is one of the most important organizations in Classical High. It has representation from all three classes. The members of Student Government represent the entire student body which forms a link between the students and the administration.

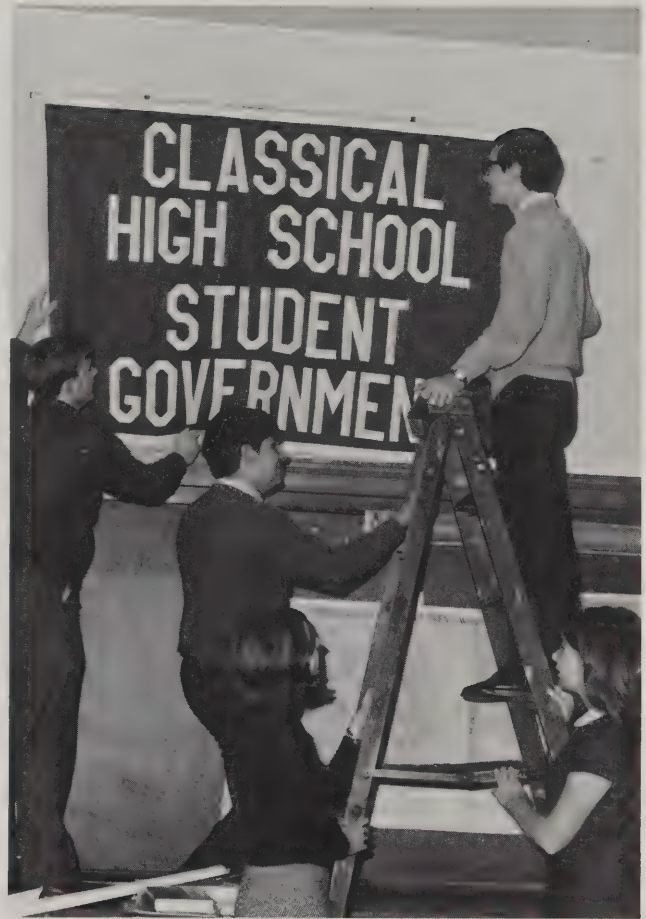

The main function of Student Government is to provide policies and activities that will give Classical a more enjoyable environment. Student Government provides a Welcome Committee to make new students at Classical feel right at home. Every Christmas vacation Student Government sponsors a Holiday semi-formal. The school store is always open with a full stock of school supplies. The new formed Senior Privilege policy allows seniors to get out of their studies to relax in designated areas at the end of the year. Student Government is well represented at such affairs as the Safety Council at the University of Massachusetts, a Model Congress in New York, the National Conference of Christians and Jews, and a Student Government day in Boston.

Student Government respects the opinions and ideas of students and faculty. Anyone with ideas or projects that he would like to see in the working may consult any member of Student Government where it would be given full consideration.

Teresa Zubrowski, Michele Kudisch, and Lucy Maratea operate the college view-deck in the Counselors' Office.

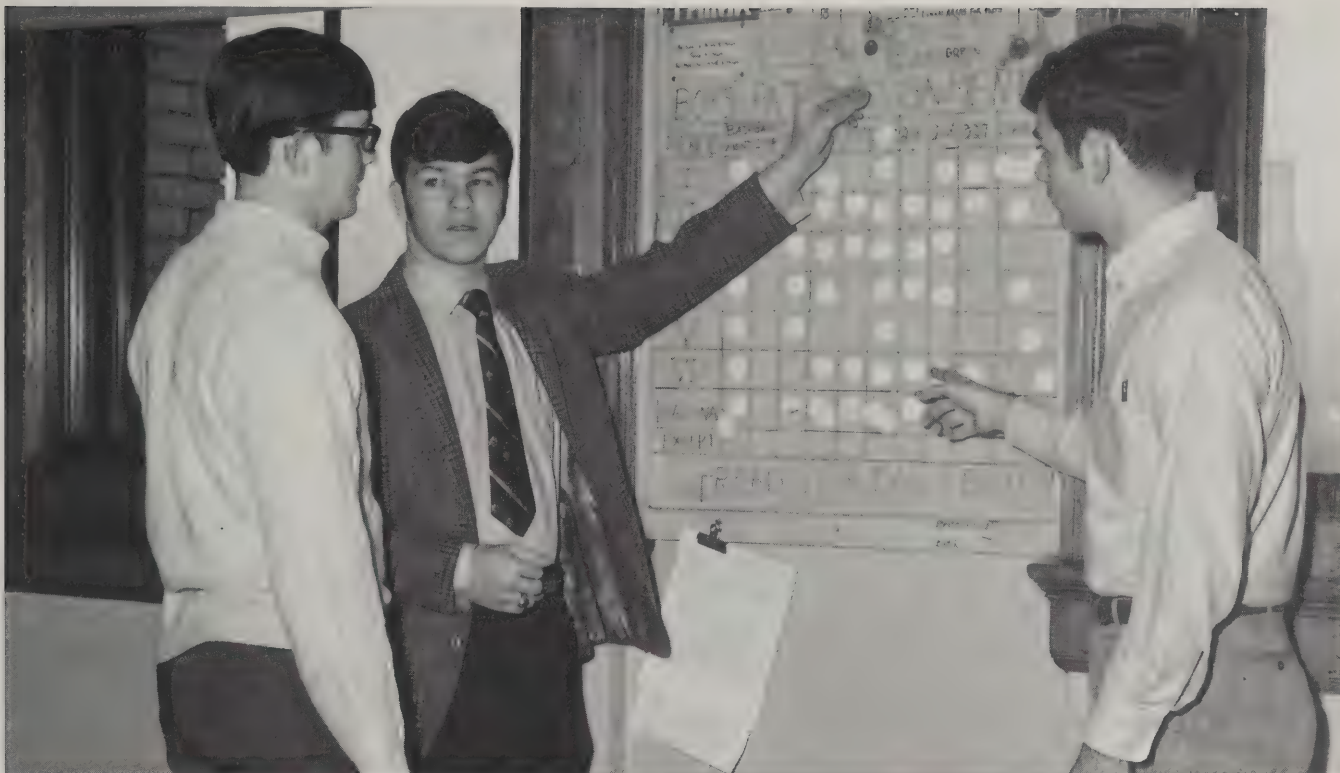

Counter-signing passes and keeping order in the girls' rooms, assisting in the office and guidance office, and helping with hearing and vision tests are among the duties of the Girls' Patrol. Ushering at school functions and at graduation are after-school duties of the patrol. In order to gain acceptance on the Girls' Patrol, under the supervision of Miss Dickerman, a girl must be recommended by all her teachers and must be voted upon by members of the patrol. To become a member, a girl must possess the qualities of honesty, integrity, and responsibility.

Boys' Patrol Captain Tim Allen, Deputy Captain Kevin Fay, and Lieutenant Tom Kuczmariski checks the crowded assignment board.

The many important duties of Mr. Meder's Boys' Patrol include ridding the halls of loiterers after the 7:45 bell, cleaning up the lunchroom after untidy students, opening lockers (at a price) for key-less classmates, and bounding around school with messages and supplies for the front office. In order to get into this organization, a boy must be approved by his teachers and must undergo a thorough interrogation procedure by the patrol members. Once on duty, the patrol member finds rewarding experience in helping his fellow associates.

Busy teachers rely on the help

Library Aides Chris Bellamy, Sharon Thomas, and Roberta Ginsberg tackle the work load on the library front desk.

The library aides assist Miss Brown in handling the constant flow of students into and out of Room 217. Before school, the library personnel is kept busy giving study period passes to students. Shifts of aides work behind the desk, and replacements relieve them every priod. They keep the library shelves in order and keep desk work from piling up. The library aides help Miss Brown to maintain our library as a place of study.

In order to keep mishaps at a minimum, Mr. Lamoureux and Mrs. Towne have enlisted lab aides to help them control their classes. During free periods, these aides swarm in and around desks, providing helpful hints for baffled students. They assist the teacher in planning experiments and in correcting tests. The aides also keep the labs in working order, cleaning and straightening up after careless scientists.

Stage Crew Chief Paul Case points out the intricacies of a stereo-tape recorder to associates Bob Chase, Gordon Clark, and Steve Finson.

Stage Crew members perform behind-the-scenes at all assemblies, talks, and P.T.S.A. meetings. Classical's well-run assemblies are dependent upon them. Operating the lights, changing scenery, and working the curtain are the duties of the Stage Crew. Expert camouflage personnel, they usually manage to blend into the maze of our stage quite well. Directed by Mr. Lussier, and presided over by Chief Paul Case, the members meet behind the closed doors of the Stage Crew room during homeroom periods. Their hideout is the place of much merriment, but, when duty calls, the Stage Crew always rises to the occasion.

Mr. Pare, director of the Audio-Visual Aides, assigns his order to perform duties around the school. Loaded down with the equipment of their trade — films, slides, screens, and projectors — the AVA staff hastens the halls to fill the requisitions of teachers.

I.R.C., Red Cross, Future Teachers,

The International Relations Club attempts to acquaint students with a better understanding of the different peoples of the world. IRC meets on Wednesday, first period, in the auditorium. Each meeting the club hears a guest speaker present the culture and customs of a foreign country.

IRC does more than promote international understanding. Each year it holds a drive in school to raise money for a Korean orphan that the club supports. The money raised provides clothing, food, medical care, and school materials for the orphan. Mr. Corbin and Mrs. Evans are the club advisers.

Ellen Pregulsky, GERALYN LARAMEE, and Susan Lieberman of IRC greet a guest speaker, Mr. Daniel Parushothan of India.

The Red Cross at Classical performs many services for those in need. In the fall the club sponsors a drive to raise money. During the year, the Classical Red Cross helps hospitals by providing entertainment and parties for the shut-ins. This year they have helped the Monson State Hospital, Veterans Hospital, Westover, and the Shriners. The organization also sends friendship kits to the needy abroad. Mrs. Beverly is the adviser.

Jane Morgan, Elaine Paquet, Pat MacNamee, and Ellen Chaitovsky attend a Red Cross meeting.

and Future Nurses in service to others

Students interested in making teaching their future career have found satisfaction in the Clarence I. Chatto Future Teachers' Club. With Miss Morris as adviser, the club meets Wednesdays after school in room 238. The club acquaints its members with the various fields of teaching. Occasionally, members who have been involved in an interesting educational experience address the club. Members also assist teachers with their tasks.

Marlene Kozicki aids Miss Boylan by filing absense and tardy excuses.

Familiarizing girls with the various fields in nursing and medicine is the aim of the Future Nurses' Club. Meeting after school the first Monday of every month, the club has a varied program set up by the officers and Mrs. Provost, the adviser. Programs feature films on various fields of medicine and speakers from hospitals and colleges.

Miss Norman from U. of M. nursing program answers questions from Debbie Tomchik, Janet Beatty, Elaine Bannon, and Jane Tomkiel about the University of Massachusetts School of Nursing.

Intellectual pursuits engage

Miss Boylan explains the function of a mantilla to Linda Newman, Mary Alice Karczmarczyk, Linda Brown, Cynthia Ghareeb, and Karen Wawrzonek.

Pierides, the girls' literary society, prepares its members to appreciate all aspects of the literary field. Members study prose, poetry, and drama, both past and present. An adventure in culture and fine arts awaits those who join this oldest of school clubs for girls. Traditions, however, grow stronger with age. Pierides has a program of guest speakers and field trips. Most important, the girls have come to recognize the outstanding writing achievement. Their literary contest continues to provide an outlet for the best in writing that Classical students have to offer.

Mr. Wessman discusses an interesting painting with Larry Hurwitz and Steve Cohen. An informal atmosphere surrounds each meeting of the Culture Vultures at the George Walter Vincent Smith Art Museum. The museum curator, Mr. Donald Reichart, is full of answers to members' questions concerning contemporary and traditional art.

The idea for Culture Vultures was the brainchild of Mr. Robert Wessman and Mr. Francis Girr, who felt that students should have the opportunity to see and appreciate art and artistic values. They gathered together a group of enthusiastic Classicalities, took a trip to the museum, and lo the Culture Vultures! They've been going to the museum ever since, and that enthusiastic spirit is still there.

the interest of Classical students

Any time you forget how old the Classical Senate is, you can look at the marble tablets near Room 112. These tablets recognize the Senate's best debaters since it was founded in 1908. However, this tradition hasn't kept the organization from looking to the future in a search for the answers to America's problems. Its members further the democratic process through Congressional style election of officers, and participate in two model congresses, emphasizing a two-pronged program of formal debate and fundamentals of legislative procedure.

The Forum is a new club, founded this year to encourage debating, both formal and informal, and the art of public speaking. Its founders felt they could achieve greater flexibility by eliminating some procedural points which sometimes tend to divide parliamentary bodies. Consequently, open channels exist for discussion with a minimum of bureaucracy and red tape, giving members a chance to freely express ideas and concentrate on public speaking.

Certain clubs challenge

Alan Searleman makes his move against Phil Mazzi. David Ryan is an interested onlooker.

To those with an interest in the games of chess, the Chess Club provides an excellent chance to improve play by weekly practice. Meeting Mondays after school in room 305, the Chess Club is advised by Mr. Meder and with Alan Searleman as president and Philip Mazzi as vice-president. In addition to playing among themselves, the Chess Club also participates as a team in matches with other schools.

Classical has two clubs for those interested in the sciences. The Scientific Association, advised by Mr. Guzowski, meets every two weeks in room 325. The members of the club are encouraged to do projects in order to increase their knowledge and to demonstrate them for the rest of the club.

Mr. O'Donnell is the adviser of the Biology Club, which meets after school in room 316. During the year, the members have studied genetics, drugs, bacteria, microbiology, cancer, and radiation.

Science Club members Leo Skrzypek, Diane Badorek, Steve Finson, Joe Rosenblatt, Leon Thiem, Mike Greenspan, Alan Bale,

the intellect of students

Jon Greenberg, Jim O'Connell, Mike Greenspan, and Bill Parker discuss the answer to host Phil Shepardson's question.

The "As Schools Match Wits" team also had to practice. After compiling the results of a written exam, Mrs. Morrill selected a varsity and junior varsity team, which held trial competition under her supervision. Finally, the squad was ready for Channel 22. The boys won three games in succession before losing a close one. "But," said Captain Jim O'Connell, "we'll be back."

Mathletes Bill Gourlie, Jim Widland, Andrew Blumberg, and Laurie Ratner wrack their brains to come up with the answer to a problem. This kind of brainwork is characteristic of mathematics league matches in which Classical won the city title. Under the direction of Mr. Wessman, team members hold frequent practice sessions and are actively involved in area competition. The practice pays off too for three mathletes, Andrew Blumberg, Fred Dolgin, and Michael Greenspan, earned finalist rating in the Fifth Annual Olympiad High School Prize Competition in Mathematics, sponsored by the Massachusetts Association of Mathematics Leagues.

Language clubs and

The French Club provides an opportunity for students who are interested in the French language and culture to enhance their knowledge of these subjects. Meeting the second Wednesday of each month in room 116, the club conducts many activities such as a Mardi Gras and a Christmas toy drive in conjunction with the Salvation Army to make Christmas merrier for needy children in Springfield. Steve Holochuck, Janey Biernacki, GERALYN LARAMEE, and Penny Kasper wrap some of the presents. Miss Meunier is the adviser of the club.

For those in Classical interested in Israel and the Hebrew language, the Hebrew Club is open. With Dr. Miller as adviser, the club meets once a month in room 327. Activities include speakers on Israel and a trip to the Jewish Home for the Aged. This year, a city official, Mr. Jerrold Winer, spoke on community activities.

The purpose of our Spanish Club is to promote greater interest in the civilization and culture of Spanish-speaking peoples. Meeting on the third Tuesday of each month with their adviser, Miss McCarthy, the Spanish Club plans activities to acquaint themselves with all aspects of Spanish custom. Barbara Lak, Gloria Nowak, Barbara Ehrlich, and Ellen Suchorebrow, perform a hat dance. Guest speakers, films, culture trips, fiestas, and bake sales for the benefit of community projects are other important activities of the Spanish Club.

P.T.S.A. promote understanding

... struggle on the stairs ...

Parents gather in the auditorium ...

... and browse through the Book Fair.

Classical's P.T.S.A. is a link between parents, students, and teachers. It seeks to promote understanding by introducing each to the problems of the other. One means of this introduction, for the parents, at least, is attendance at the annual "Parents' Night."

Parents were greeted at the door by the friendly members of the Girls' Patrol, who were later helpful in guiding lost persons to their destinations. Mr. Montagna spoke to the guests at a short business meeting in the auditorium, and then — the bells started ringing. Periods were cut to eight minutes each, enabling the entire school day to be completed in an hour and a half — a schedule some of the students wouldn't mind filling. However, time between classes remained the same, and parents became familiar with the problems of students: "All the way from the boys' gym to 327 in just four minutes."

These students help spark

Under the direction of Frederick Kerr, the Classical High Marching Band perform during halftime at most football games. By playing stirring music throughout the game, the band had a large role in keeping up the spirit of Classicalites. All of this is the result of many rehearsals of marching drills practicing music. After the marching season, band members begin preparing for their concert program in the spring.

Mr. Kerr conducts all instrumental groups at Classical. He prepares each group for the upcoming concert.

Sue Marchese, Chris Hurley, Cindy Lutz, Marcia Stahl, Debbie Pina, Debbie Megas, Chris Nicholson, Joanne Metayer, Barbara Winterton.

Choral groups display excellence

The active Madrigal Singers perform for the students of Classical High the year round. Performances include the Christmas Concert, Spring Concert, and the Madrigal Formal Concert at graduation. Members of the Madrigal Singers are (front row): Michael Beshara, Valerie Smith, Sarah Gelfand, Richard Berger, Reba Caskin, Jane Albert, Lauren Humphrey, (second row)

Shelley Parker, Sanderson Combs, Karen George, Steven Cohen, Gary Plouff, Laura Feldman, Sally Geisel, Marc Allinson, Joan Schaffer, (third row) Daryl Pennington, Denise St. Jean, Greg Roeder, Debra Tanen, Glen Kroll, Dorothy Cokkinias, William Gourlie, Myra Pianovich, Stephen Ferrarone.

Accompanist Danila Bloom is very helpful to the Girls' Chorus. She provides background music and helps keep the girls on pitch. Danila works on her own to perfect each piece of music that the chorus sings.

Under the direction of Mr. Robbins, the choral groups rehearse daily at different periods during the school day. In order to reach perfection in tone, expression, and harmony, rehearsals sometimes must be extended to after school. The choruses, choir and Madrigal prepare for such events as the Christmas Concert, and the Spring Concert. Each year different groups participate in a concert in which they are judged according to various musical standards. The music year terminates at graduation where the Madrigal Singers perform.

Mr. Robbins rehearses, supervises, and conducts all choral groups at Classical.

Athletic and intellectual events

Mr. Scibelli drives around Mr. Peck as seniors Tim Allen and Barry Chernok strive to stop him. Kevin Fay (in background) officiates the play.

Classical High held its annual Student-Faculty Basketball Game in January. Both teams played to an exciting finish. Some of the faculty dribblers included Mr. Scibelli, Mr. Guzowski, Mr. Sullivan, Mr. White, Mr. Yesu, and Mr. Marr. The student hoopsters included Tim Kennedy, Tim Allen, Dave Senders, Ken Whitsett, Earl Manley, Gil Dufault, and Don Toohey.

Seniors Tim Kennedy and Earl Manley battle the offensive boards as the students score again.

Pat Keenan, Ira Deitsch, Leslye Linton, Richard Rigazio, James Widland and Penny Kasper receive congratulations from Classical students during the National Honor Society assembly. James O'Connor presides over the assembly.

The William C. Hill Chapter of the National Honor Society inducts qualified Classical students each year. Juniors who have a 3.75 average are elected to membership in the middle of their junior year. Seniors are elected twice a year; those with a 3.75 average in the fall of their senior year, and those with a 3.25 average at the final assembly. The N.H.S. organizes such events as the Book Fair and the Alumni Tea.

Leslye Linton accepts her N.H.S. certificate from Mr. Montagna as James O'Connor looks on.

Class of 1968 returns for Alumni Tea.

Bob Levine tells Angelo Sifakes the latest Classical news.

Donna Agen and Chris Tuller compare college life.

Each year the National Honor Society sponsors the Alumni Christmas Tea. Committees handle invitations, refreshments and decorations. After signing the register, returning alumni get together in the cafeteria where they meet old friends and discuss college life. Members of the Honor Society serve refreshments. The Alumni Tea also gives the present seniors an opportunity to find out about college experiences.

The Classical soccer team compiled an outstanding record of eleven wins, five losses, and one tie, finishing second in the Interschool League and gaining the runner-up spot in the Western Mass. Tournament. In the Interschool League, the Bulldogs, led by Coach Vaughan, finished second with a 5-2-1 record. Their two losses, both by 1-0 scores, came at the hands of Tech and Cathedral, with each game being decided by a penalty kick. Although seeded ninth in the Western Mass. Tournament, the Bulldogs advanced to the semi-finals on victories over Holy Name of Worcester, and Quabbin. In the semi-finals, Classical scored a stunning 1-0 upset over top-seeded Chicopee. The Bulldogs were edged by Ludlow in the finals, 1-0. Outstanding players for the team were co-captains Mike Doyle, Steve Ellis, and John Elkins. Doyle and Ellis were named to the All-City and All-Western Mass. Teams. Elkins also gained All-City recognition, along with Scott Bridgeman, Fran Bloom, and Jack Cawley.

Stuart Hersh finishes the two mile course, trying desperately to beat the clock.

The Classical Cross Country Team led by Coach Scibelli, managed to win only one of their seven contests in 1968, but that win, coming against Technical, proved very satisfying. At the end of the season, the team competed in the Western Massachusetts Meet at the University of Massachusetts. Although they failed to finish among the leaders, the team managed to place ahead of several of the teams that they had lost to during the season. Irv Potter was our most consistent runner, finishing first for Classical in all meets except the U Mass. tournament which saw Alan Reid leading the field to capture first place.

Runners for the Cross Country Team are (seated first row), Steve Rome, Stuart Hersh, Alan Reid, Irv Potter; (standing), Coach Scibelli, Bill Chumack, Bill Parker, Rich MacPhaul, Warren Garner, Jim Weiner.

Gridmen undefeated for

The Classical gridmen did it again, completing their second consecutive undefeated season by compiling a nineteen game winning streak, which was the longest in the state. "We weren't overpowering, but we were able to score. We had good speed and defense. And, we had nine real good players who went both ways," modestly commented Coach Phil Hart as he added the third undefeated season in five years to his successful coaching record. Senior end Jesse Parks and brother Garry, who played a halfback spot, were the big scorers, rolling up 158 of the 258 points scored by the '68 Bulldog team. Dave Liberty, the junior quarterback who didn't see varsity action until this season, caught on quickly and threw for eleven touchdowns even though Classical ran a predominantly ground game all season. Seniors Tom Lak and Mark Szafranski had to be the outstanding linemen, both offensively and defensively, as well as being two of the six players elected to the All Western Mass. Team. The Parks brothers, Ken Whitsett, and Mike Evans were the remaining four chosen for the All Western Mass. Team.

Garry Parks puts it up and in!

The Classical basketball team finished the regular season with an excellent record of thirteen wins and three losses. In the tough Interschool League, the Bulldogs earned a tie for second place with Tech by winning five and losing three. Two of the Bulldogs' Interschool defeats came at the hands of unbeaten Commerce, the top quintet in Western Massachusetts. In both games, Classical stayed with Commerce for three quarters, but in each tilt the speedy Red Raiders pulled away in the last quarter. In their key games against Tech, the Bulldogs notched an important first-round win with some great foul-shooting, but they dropped their second-round tilt to the Tigers by a narrow margin. Classical hoopsters were rewarded for their great record when they received a berth in the Western Massachusetts Class L Tournament.

Throughout the season, the Bulldogs relied on their tight zone defense and their ball-control offense to confound their opponents. Led by the ball-hawking tactics of Garry Parks and the rebounding of Mike Evans and Tim Parker, Classical's defenders consistently held their opponents to low scores. Mike Doyle controlled Coach Hart's pattern offense, which was paced by the outside shooting of Fran Bloom.

Jesse Parks stops and pops!

Classical skaters make good their league leading goals against average of 1.57.

In only its second season in the tough Berry Division, Coach James Carlin's Classical hockey team captured the league championship with an excellent record of eleven wins and three losses. The Bulldogs clinched the title in their next-to-last game of the season by defeating second-place Tech, 3-2. Because of their Berry Division title, the Classical pucksters were seeded first in the Western Mass. Hockey Tournament.

The Bulldogs' offense was paced by the scoring feats of senior center Ed Hayes. Although he missed half of the season, Hayes tallied eighteen points to tie for the team lead with freshman Paul Ziter. Both Hayes and Ziter were among the Berry Division scoring leaders. Jeff Koopus, Steve Ryan, and Gary Bacchiocchi were the other top point-setters for Classical.

Classical's defense, led by goaltender Dave "Moose" Cawley, allowed only 22 goals, the fewest of any team in the Berry Division. The "Moose" recorded two shutouts and held seven other opponents to one goal on the way to his league-leading season. Defensemen who starred for the Bulldogs were Mark Bousquet, Jack Cawley, and Mike Ellis.

Hard skating and tough checking frequently lead to high spirits on the ice.

By virtue of their perfect record of three wins and no losses in city competition, the Classical swimming team captured the City Championship for the fourth consecutive year. Coach Otto Wulff's mermen did not fare as well in the Western Massachusetts Swimming League, where they compiled an over-all record of five victories and eight defeats against stiff competition. Co-captains of the squad were John Maloney and Mark Goldstein. Maloney, a specialist in the long-distance races, was joined in the free-style events by Joe Bonales and Bruce Eggleston. Goldstein, Bob Kroll, and Peter La Rochelle were outstanding all around swimmers. Diver Terry Pearsons was another consistent point winner for the Bulldogs.

Mark Szafranski, Keith Edwards, Bill Fiore, Lennice Glaze, Jesse Spenser, Gary Selden, Steve Rome, Manager Joe Harris.

Under the guidance of Coach Dick Dobbert from Springfield College, Classical's wrestling team compiled a fine record of five wins and five losses. The matmen managed to defeat city rival Commerce twice, but dropped tough contests to Trade, Cathedral, and Tech. Outside the city, the team scored impressive victories over Granby, St. Joseph's of Pittsfield, and Quabbin Regional. In the Western Massachusetts Meet at Longmeadow, the Bulldogs placed fifth in the team standings. Throughout the season, the grapplers were led by senior co-captain Mark Szafranski, who won the State Championship in his 167-pound weight class. Another outstanding player, Lennice Glaze, served as the other co-captain of this years' team.

After opening the season with a disappointing tie against Trade, the Classical bowling team rolled to seven straight victories to win their third consecutive City Championship. Consistently dominating their matches, the Kegglers notched six of their victories by perfect 8-0 scores. On the season, the Bulldogs outscored their opponents by the phenomenal margin of 58-6, another indication of their clear superiority over the other city teams. The Bulldogs were paced to their outstanding season by senior Russ Winer, who had the highest average in the city. Other senior competitors were Jim Methe, Marc Allinson, and Paul Kabb.

This years varsity team is represented by (standing) Bruce Hambro, Paul Kabb, Coach Jermakian, (sitting) Russ Winer, and Marc Allinson.

Coach Scibelli and the team intently follow the action.

The 1968 baseball team finished its first season under Coach Scibelli with a record of nine wins and five losses. Classical placed third in the Interschool League with a record of four wins and four losses. Two of these losses came in crucial games against powerful Tech, the eventual State Champion. In independent competition, the Bulldogs compiled a fine record of five victories and one defeat.

The Bulldogs' pitching staff was led by Pete Deschesnes, who had an outstanding record of five wins and one loss. At the plate, the team was paced by Jesse Parks who batted .389 and Earl Manley who batted .333.

"OLD MEMORIES"

The cindermen, under the direction of Coach Vaughan, came up with another fine season capturing second place in the city meet, and fourth place in the Western Mass. Tournament. Co-captain Norm Dagenais fought hard for two first place sprint titles in the city meet, along with three first place titles taken by '68 graduates. Classical's arch rival, Tech, went down to the trackmen by a substantial score of $85\frac{1}{2}$ to $45\frac{1}{2}$. Classical also gained hard-fought wins over Holyoke, Commerce, and Trade.

Star sprinter Norm Dagenais heads for the finish line, adding another win to his collection.

Otto Wolff, Greg Roeder, Dave Vinick, Jim Fox, Bob Townsend, Terry Pearsons, Glenn Kroll, Walt Nickerson, Gary Selden, Bernie Jaroslow.

The crew team, led by Captain Bob Townsend, finished the season with a record of one win and two losses. The oarsmen scored their lone win over the Tech Junior Varsity, but they were defeated by the Amherst freshmen and by their arch rival, the Tech Varsity.

The Classical strokeers begin their daily run passing under the North End Bridge which arches over the Connecticut River.

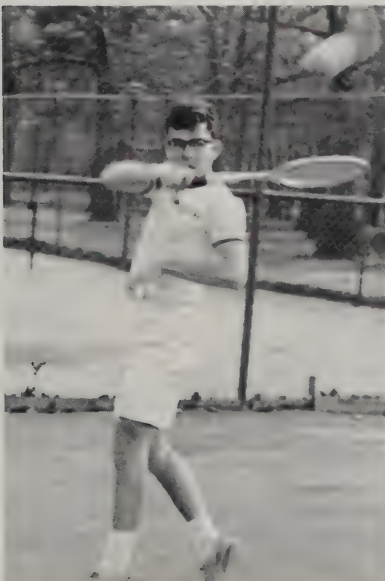

Racketmen Retain City Title

The Bulldog racketmen, having captured their second straight city crown, completed the '68 season with a record of seven wins and seven losses. Ralph Russomando and Bob Maislen, backed by Fred Dolgin, Mark Ehrlich, Jimmy Goldman, and Jimmy Widland,

Springfield, Massachusetts

Man is challenged today to excel in almost every endeavor . . . those who do succeed often trace the beginnings of their performance pattern to accomplishment in high school and to those who offered stimulation and inspiration in these formative years. Josten's has long been a partner to these educational leaders in providing a means of motivation and the rewards of recognition, and Josten's products have become tangible symbols honoring perseverance and achievement.
